

ABOUT

Founded in 2018, the “Feeding Sustainable Cities” Network (Alimentar Cidades Sustentáveis in Portuguese) serves as a forum for all actors and sectors involved in ensuring the sustainability of food systems in Portugal.

MISSION

(1): Pluralistic and evidence-based knowledge exchange as a tool to increase understanding of diverse sectors and entities that are part of the food systems.

(2): Collective building up of knowledge as a tool to provide evidence for public policy decision making, in order to enhance their environmental, economic, and social sustainability.

WHAT WE DO

In addition to sharing information and event invitations in a voluntary base by the members of this community, occasional Network-wide activities are held as well, such as monthly online debates regarding national food and agriculture projects. In 2020 the e-book “Alimentar Boas Práticas: da Produção ao Consumo Sustentável” (Promote Best Practices: from Sustainable Production to Consumption, 2020 in English) was edited by the cofounders of this network.
